Introduction

The Active Communities Tool Assessment Modules assesses strengths and weaknesses of community plans, policies, and resources for improving community built environments for physical activity. The tool can also monitor progress toward achieving community conditions known to promote physical activity. It is designed to help cross-sector teams create an action plan for improving community built environments that promote physical activity.

The Active Communities Tool Assessment Modules:

- contains six self-assessment modules designed to help users to identify opportunities for action, or engagement, to improve community built environments for physical activity;
- aligns with current scientific evidence as reflected in the Community Preventive Services Task Force recommendations on Built Environment Approaches Combining Transportation System Interventions with Land Use and Environmental Design and the Active Travel to School, and;
- is based largely on items from existing rating and assessment tools commonly and successfully used in the field.

For further information on how to use the Active Communities Tool Assessment Modules as part of your broader action planning process, see The Active Communities Tool (ACT): An Action Planning Guide and Assessment Modules to Improve Community Built Environments to Promote Physical Activity.

Who can use the Active Communities Tool Assessment Modules?

Completing this tool requires input from a cross-sector team. The team may include representatives from public health, land use and transportation, planning, traffic engineering, public works, parks and recreation, school districts, public transit systems, or other community stakeholders.

The Active Communities Tool Assessment Modules are best suited for use with a single municipality (also referred to as community) given that this town or city will have powers of self-governance. A county or region may use the tool; however, plans and policies may differ across municipal jurisdictions within those areas. In counties or regions containing more than one municipality, teams may want to complete the assessment modules separately for each one. For the school-related module, keep in mind that school district boundaries may be different from municipal boundaries.

How to complete the Active Communities Tool Assessment Modules?

There is no single way to complete the Active Communities Tool Assessment Modules. There are many approaches. We encourage you to review The Active Communities Tool (ACT): An Action Planning Guide and Assessment Modules to Improve Community Built Environments to Promote Physical Activity to understand how the Active Communities Tool Assessment Modules fit into the broader action planning process.

Information about each of the six assessment modules (e.g., purpose of the module, type of technical expert(s) to involve in completing the module, length of time to complete the module) is noted on each module's cover page and in The Active Communities Tool Action Planning Guide.

A few key points to consider:

- Complete the modules selected by the cross-sector team. A key benefit to looking at all the modules is to have a full picture of the opportunities potentially available for your community to act on and to measure progress on community built environment improvements that promote physical activity.
- Complete the Active Communities Tool Assessment Modules as a group effort involving the technical experts relevant to the actionable areas selected. The public health practitioners may need to contact technical experts in other sectors to complete the modules.
- Answer each question in each module selecting the answer that best describes your community. If a question does not apply to your community, then mark it as not applicable.

MODULE 1:

STREET DESIGN AND CONNECTIVITY

- » This module assesses the plans, policies, and resources your community uses to design the physical roadway network, for example, regulations or zoning codes, street connectivity, and plans for existing and future streets constructed by the community and through future development.
- » Who should be involved – technical experts with knowledge of the community's zoning policies and codes and subdivision regulations; specifically experts in planning, transportation, and public works.
- » Approximate time to complete – 30 minutes.

Community/Municipality: _____

Term	Definition
Arterial roads	High-capacity roads that primarily deliver traffic from collector roads to freeways/expressways and between urban centers.
Collector roads	Roads that gather traffic from local roads and deliver traffic to arterial roads.
Comprehensive Plan	The adopted official statement of a governing body of a local government that sets forth (in words, maps, illustrations, and/or tables) goals, policies, and guidelines intended to direct the present and future physical, social, and economic development that occurs within its planning jurisdiction and that includes a unified physical design for the public and private development of land.
High-stress and low-stress streets	Refers to the level of stress the street segment imposes on cyclists. The classification is based on traffic characteristics such as road width, traffic speed, the presence of a parking lane, and whether bikes are in mixed traffic, in bike lanes, or on segregated paths.
Local ordinances	Policies passed by local governing authorities, such as a city council or board of commissioners. They include, but are not limited to zoning regulations, subdivision ordinances, and street design guidelines.
Major and collector street plan	A comprehensive plan and implementation tool for guiding public and private investments in the major streets (Arterial roads and Collector roads) that make up the backbone of the city's transportation system.
Performance measures for connectivity	Quantitative metrics used to evaluate active transportation projects and/or the transportation system. Examples include percent of network constructed, intersection density, or facility miles.
Shared-use paths	Paths that include paved or unpaved accommodations for both pedestrians and bicyclists for transportation or for recreation.
Street connectivity	Refers to the directness of links and the density of connections in a street network. A well-connected network has many short links, numerous intersections, and minimal dead ends.

Please answer these questions based on the community / municipality selected.

Infrastructure to Accommodate Bicyclists

Community/Municipality: _____

Term	Definition
Bicycle boulevards	A low-stress shared roadway bicycle facility designed to offer priority for bicyclists operating within a roadway shared with motor vehicle traffic.
Bicycle facility	A general transportation term to describe improvements and provisions to encourage bicycling, including parking and storage facilities, and shared roadways no specifically designated for bicycle use.
Bicycle lanes	A portion of the roadway of designated by striping, signage, pavement markings, or physical barriers for the preferential or exclusive use of bicyclists. This includes sharrows, buffered bicycle lanes, conventional bicycle lanes, and protected bicycle lanes.
Buffered bicycle lanes	On street bicycle lane separated from the motor vehicle travel lane and/or parking lane through a designated buffer space.
Buffer distance	The amount of space between the bicycle lane and the adjacent motor vehicle travel lane and/or parking lane. It is usually separated by two solid white lines and may have diagonal hatching or chevron markings.
Conventional bike lane	A space specifically for bicyclists delineated through the use of pavement markings and signage. It is usually adjacent to motor vehicle travel lanes and flows in the same direction as motor vehicle traffic.
Low-speed shared streets	A street environment where pedestrian activity is high and vehicle volumes are low or discouraged. They are usually local-access, narrow streets without curbs and sidewalks, and vehicles are slowed by placing trees, planters, parking areas and other obstacles in the street. Motorists are encouraged to travel at much slower speeds.
Protected bicycle lanes	On street bicycle lane separated from the motor vehicle travel lane and/or parking lane through a physical barrier, such as a curb, planter, or posts.
Shared lane markings (sharrows)	A painted marking of a bicycle on the pavement to help convey to motorists and bicyclists that they must share the road on which they are operating.
Wide paved shoulders	Ridable surface $\geq 4$ feet, and minimum clear path of $\geq 4$ feet between rumble strips.

Please answer these questions based on the community / municipality selected.

PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION

- » This module assesses the plans, policies, environments, and resources devoted to public transportation, including public transit infrastructure and access.
- » Who should be involved – technical experts with knowledge of the community's planning, transportation, and public transit plans, policies, and resources; specifically experts in planning, transportation, and public transit.
- » Approximate time to complete – 30 minutes.

Community/Municipality: _____

Term	Definition
Branches	Refers to the various “forks” in the transit network and which ones are main lines (trunklines) and which are less well served.
Bus stop siting	Mostly relates to whether there are stops at all and where the stops are located
Bus stop spacing	Relates to getting the spacing correct. Too infrequent spacing and people will not walk that far. Too often and the physical activity is limited with the buses stopping so frequently.
Fleet	A number of vehicles operating together or under the same ownership.
General Transit Feed Specification	A format to describe public transportation schedules and associated geographic information (e.g., stops, routes, schedules, calendar, fares, and other element) for fixed-route transit services. It is typically used to supply data on public transit for use in multi-modal trip planning applications.
Intelligent transportation systems	An application to provide services relating to different modes of transport and traffic management that enables users to make better use of transportation networks through transmission of real-time information.
Level boarding	A system that places boarding platforms on the same level as the floor of the bus.
Multimodal	Refers to the availability of multiple transportation options, especially within a system or corridor. A multimodal approach to transportation planning focuses on the most efficient way of getting people or goods from place to place by means other than privately owned vehicles; by bus, trolley, light rail, streetcar, cable car, and / or ferry systems.
Network connectivity	Trunklines connect key hubs, making travel between dense centers quick and simple. More trips can be made more quickly on a network of high-frequency routes with predictable, rapid-style service. More destinations can be connected if riders can transfer conveniently along the grid network with minimal added trip time.
Transit-oriented development (TOD)	A type of urban development that maximizes the amount of residential, business and leisure space within walking distance of public transportation.
Transit facility	A place providing access to transit services, including but not limited to transit stations, bus stops, bus stations, interchanges on a highway used by one or more transit providers, ferry landings, train stations, and bus rapid transit stops.
Transit infrastructure	Those primary components of a public transportation system, including: 1) facilities (e.g., transit stations, bus stops, train tracks, transit station amenities), 2) vehicles (e.g., trains, streetcars, buses, ferries), and 3) equipment (e.g., fare card machines, real time arrival displays, wheelchair lifts, elevators, bus shelters).
Transit service area	A measure of access to transit service in terms of population served and area coverage (square miles).

LAND USE PLANNING

- » This module assesses the plans, policies, and resources that specify and determine development and future land use, for example, mixed land use, proximity to destinations, residential density.
- » Who should be involved – technical experts with knowledge of the community's planning, transportation, and engineering plans, policies, and processes (for example, comprehensive/master plans, subdivision regulations, and zoning codes); specifically experts in land use and transportation planning and engineers.
- » Approximate time to complete – 60 minutes.

Community/ Municipality: _____

Term	Definition
Cluster housing	A development in which homes are situated in groupings relatively close together, while larger areas of open space within the development form a buffer with adjacent land uses.
Comprehensive plan	The adopted official statement of a governing body of a local government that sets forth (in words, maps, illustrations, and/or tables) goals, policies, and guidelines intended to direct the present and future physical, social, and economic development that occurs within its planning jurisdiction and that includes a unified physical design for the public and private development of land.
Crime Prevention Through Environmental Design	An approach to reducing crime by altering elements of the built environment ranging from the small-scale to the overarching, including the building form of an entire urban neighborhood and the opportunity for “eyes on the street.”
Density bonuses	Allowances for developers to increase housing density that will help communities achieve walkability, bikeability, transit, and/or affordable housing goals.
Form-based or design-based codes	Codes that emphasize physical form rather than separation of uses as the organizing principle, with a lesser focus on single-use land development. May include form-based overlay codes.
Greyfield redevelopment	Redevelopment and adaptive reuse of existing development that takes advantage of existing infrastructure to reduce overall development costs in economically declining, outdated, failing, inactive, or underused real estate assets or land (e.g., older retail malls or strip centers that no longer attract adequate investment or tenants).
Growth Management Plan	A plan that sets forth the long-term goals and objectives of a locality related to growth and development. It influences how growth occurs and usually addresses density, availability of land, mixture of uses, and timing of development.
Infill	Redevelopment that optimize prior infrastructure investments and consume less land than is otherwise available. It refers to the development of vacant parcels within previously built areas already served by public infrastructure.
Live-work zones	Zones in which residents can operate businesses on the ground floor of the building where they live.
Land use plan	A plan that regulates the use of land, specifically the occupation or use of land or water area for any human activity or purpose.
Microunit	A small studio apartment, typically less than 350 square feet, with a fully functioning and accessibility compliant kitchen and bathroom.
Mixed use	Development that blends residential, commercial, cultural, institutional, or entertainment uses, where those functions are physically and functionally integrated, and that provides pedestrian and bicycle connections.
Nodes	Places where people congregate and transportation routes converge or intersect.
Pedestrian-oriented districts (POD)	A distinct designation that preserves and encourages the pedestrian character of commercial areas and promotes street life and activity by regulating building orientation and design and accessory parking facilities; focusing on pedestrian friendly uses.

Term	Definition
Planned-unit development (PUD)	A type of building development of both varied and compatible land uses, such as housing, recreation, commercial centers, and industrial parks, all within one contained development or subdivision.
Single room occupancy units	Typically a 160- square foot unit that relies upon communal kitchen or bathroom facilities.
Special improvement districts	An area of land within which property owners pay an additional tax or fee designated for specific services or improvements within the district's boundaries.
Tax-increment financing	A public financing method used as a subsidy for redevelopment, infrastructure, and other community-improvement projects within a defined area or district toward economic development or public improvement project(s).
Traditional neighborhood development (TND)	A development, which includes a variety of housing types, a mixture of land uses, an activity center, a walkable and bikeable design, and often a transit option within a compact neighborhood scale.
Transit-oriented development (TOD)	A type of urban development that maximizes the amount of residential, business, and leisure space within walking distance of public transportation.
Urban growth boundary	A land use planning border which controls urban expansion into farm and forest land.
Urban-to-rural transect	A zoning system that replaces conventional separated-use zoning. Transect zones provide the basis for walkable streets, mixed use, transportation options, and housing options.

MODULE 6:

SCHOOLS

- » This module assesses the plans, policies, environments, and resources specific to school siting, the built environment outside of the school, and connecting the school with other places.
- » Special notes on this module:
  - Due to the focus of the Active Communities Tool Assessment Modules, the School Module covers plans, policies, environment and resources specific to school siting, and connecting the school with other places. Physical activity or physical education policies, or the quality of the programming within the school are not addressed. These are important factors to consider, but are beyond the scope of this tool.
  - For engineering-related plans, policies, and resources for improving the built environment around schools to promote walking and bicycling, consult Module 2: Infrastructure to Accommodate Pedestrians and Bicyclists.
  - Responses should be based on one school district. If more than one school district is of interest, consider completing the module separately for each district.
- » Who should be involved – technical experts with knowledge of the school district's plans and policies; specifically experts in the school district, planning, facilities management, and transportation.
- » Approximate time to complete – 30 minutes.
